

Well we have done it..... We moved into our new building on Saturday 18th March. A team of parents and supporters came to carry things across the car park and on Sunday 19th all the IT was installed. We still have a few things to do, a bit of painting and a rejiggle of our store room. Dozens of individuals and several companies have supported us along the way. We actually managed a complete refurbishment in just 9 weeks including new ceilings, windows, the big atrium window had its glazing replaced and new beading added. We installed two kitchens and two bathrooms, did repairs to the roof and new guttering, and lots of new flooring. I won't go on to list everything but we were very tired at the end of it, but what a sense of achievement. I think it's important here to say that Let Us Play as a charity will benefit greatly from this move. Not only do we have space to expand but we have greater storage space so we can add to our resources so we can do even more varied activities in the future. Disabled children can lead very isolated lives and what we want is for them to grow up into the best possible adult they can be. To do that they need childhoods full of challenges and experiences, Let Us Play will continue to help them achieve this goal.
